The hike I intend to sponsor on Oct. 12 will be an assault on Rocky Peak from a different direction. We will start at the Chumash trail head which is off Flanagan Drive which is off Yosemite Ave. which is off the 118 Freeway in Simi Valley. The reason this is not intended to be the formal announcement is that I am unable to give specific directions to the trail head, but since you requested an earlier than possible input this is the best I can do. I will be out of town the next couple of weeks but I will have specific driving instructions before the hike date.

The hike will be about four miles one-way with a 1300 foot gain in elevation which does not include the last scramble to the top of Rocky Peak. We can expect to eat lunch on the peak with refreshments at the trail head.

Thanks,
Roland
